La Pedrera – Casa Milà

Spain

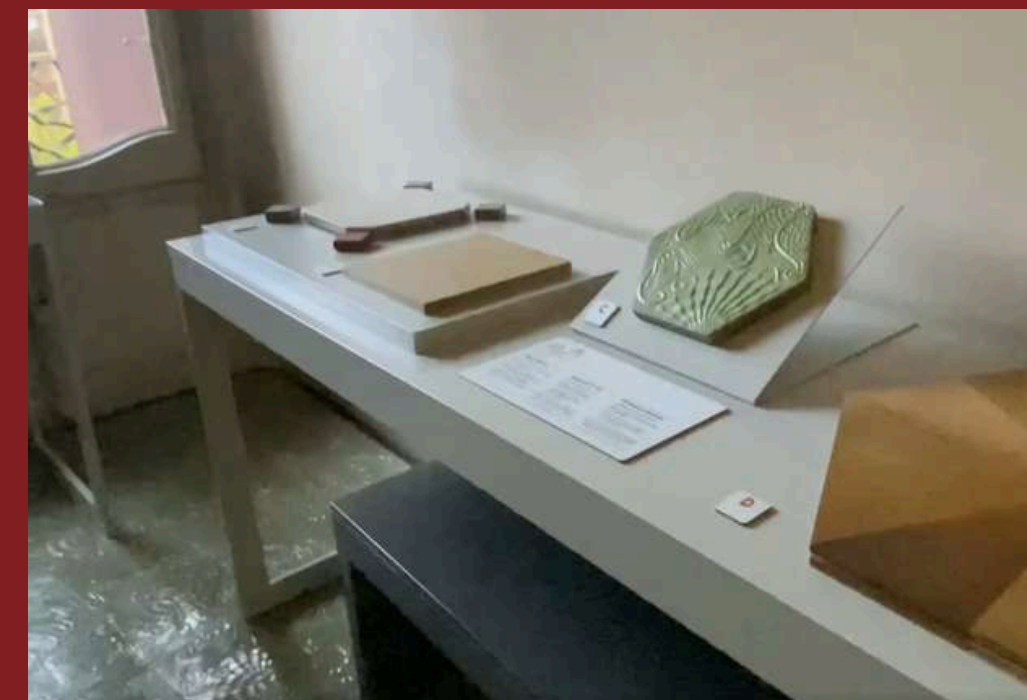

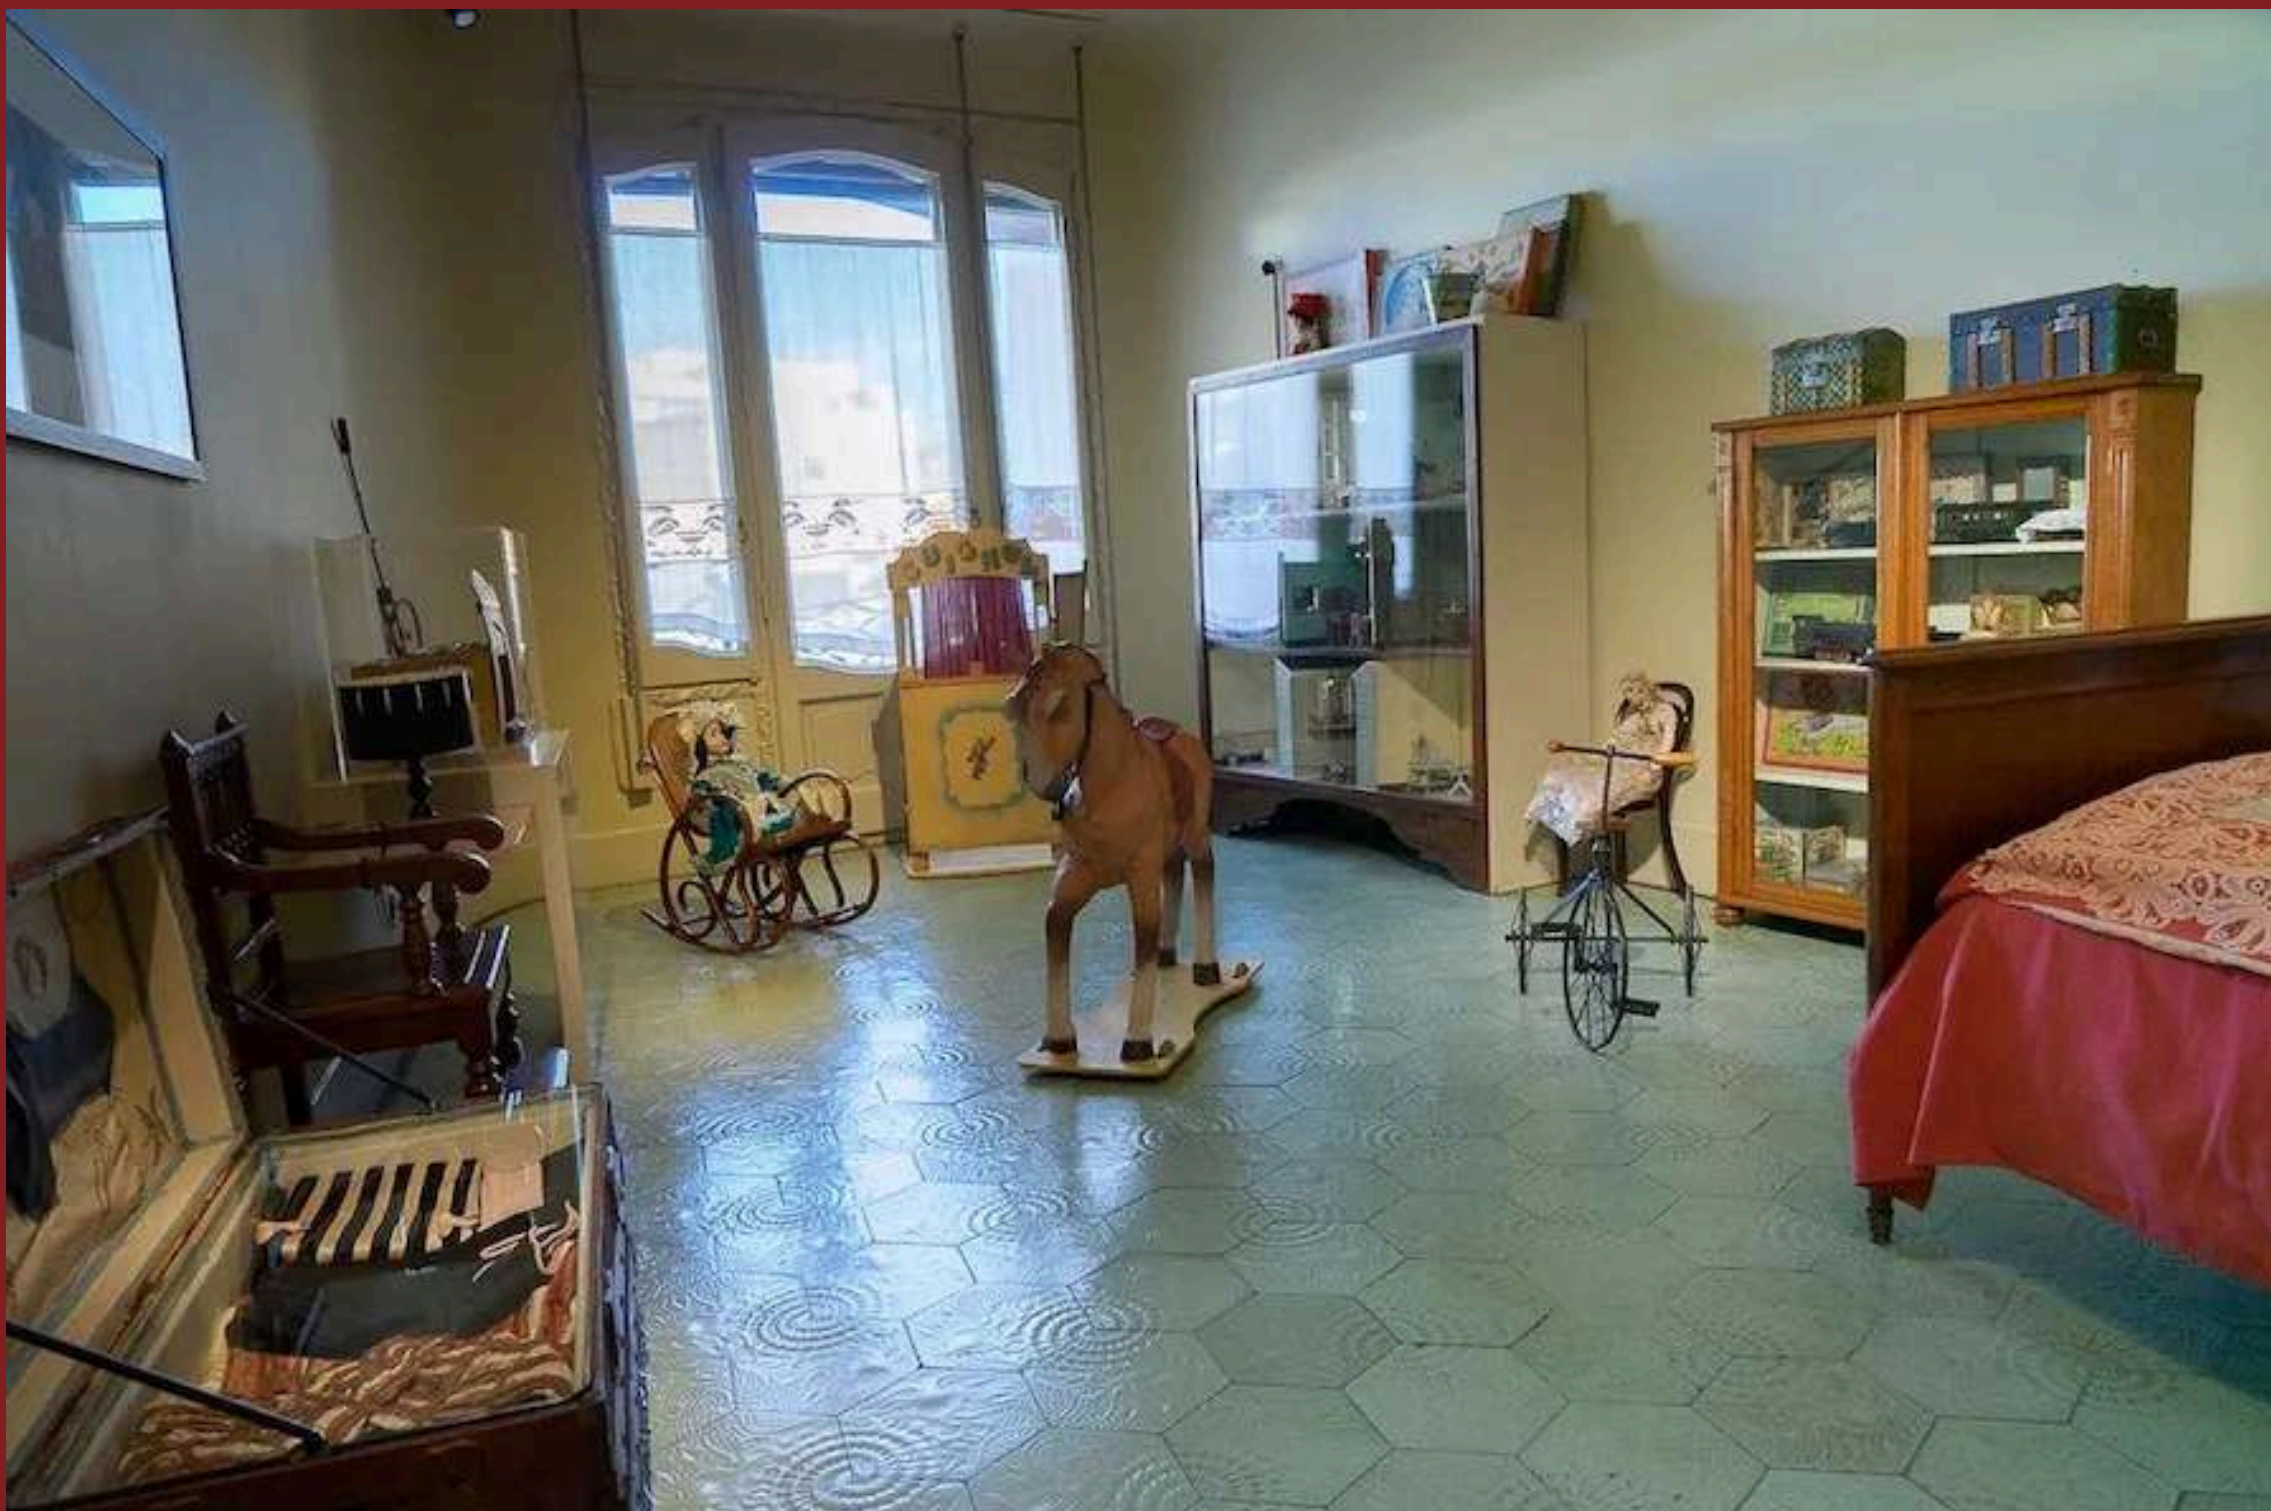

La Pedrera – Casa Milà is one of Antoni Gaudí's most celebrated architectural masterpieces, a UNESCO World Heritage Site and a symbol of Barcelona's modernisme. Mosaics Torra was entrusted with reproducing and reinstalling our iconic Hexagonal Gaudí tile in two key rooms: the children's bedroom of Gaudí himself, and one of the main living rooms. We helped recover the original geometry, texture and spirit of the space — respecting its history while restoring its beauty.

As part of a comprehensive restoration, Mosaics Torra was responsible for restoring all the flooring throughout the corridors, stairways, and main concert hall, as well as various rooms and interior spaces of the building. Casa Gaudí – Park Güell

Spain

Located within the iconic Park Güell, the pink house known today as the Casa Museu Gaudí was once the residence of Antoni Gaudí himself, and now serves as a museum dedicated to his life and work. Surrounded by Gaudí's architectural vision, this house is an essential part of Barcelona's modernist heritage.

As part of a careful restoration project, Mosaics Torra reproduced all the original mosaic tile carpets throughout the interior rooms, bringing back the authentic look and feel of the hydraulic cement flooring that once defined the space. Every detail was faithfully recreated to reflect the textures, colors, and patterns that Gaudí himself would have lived with — preserving the spirit of the house with precision and respect.
